INTERNET PRESENTATION OF NEW PRODUCTS

During recent years there has been so much new product available to the model railroad hobby that the local hobby shop simply cannot stock some of every new item. It is no longer possible for the modeling public to physically "see" and "feel" every item they may have an interest in. The discerning, inquisitive modelers must look to other means of acquainting themselves with the new product that is available. Many of these products can be viewed at various train shows around the country, but not every modeler goes to the infrequent, large train shows that are attended by their favorite manufacturer. Hobby dealer websites, YouTube, Facebook, and forums are becoming popular means of acquiring information about new items as they become available to the hobby. We will be addressing these and other information sources in the months to come.
