

TECH TIP!

The Value of the DCC Programming Track

Everyone with a DCC system should connect an isolated program track to their command station. Check your DCC system's instruction manual for specific information on how to connect one.

The program track is very valuable for diagnosing potential issues with decoders should the locomotive start to exhibit strange behavior. CVs can be read back from the decoder that can help to understand why a decoder is behaving the way it is, or help with something as simple as straightening out the decoder's address. Resetting the decoder (CV8=8) is also best done on the program track, especially if the ability to activate lights, sounds, or motion is lost while on the mainline. Undocumented default CV settings can also be discovered by reading CVs back on the program track. This is very helpful for getting a starting point on making adjustments to any settings. Error messages given by the DCC system while trying to read back a CV can be valuable, indicating a potentially more severe issue with the decoder as well. Error messages can also occur if the program track isn't connected properly so check your connections carefully. For Digitrax users, Direct Mode programming (DIR or Pd) on the program track is preferred over Page Mode programming with ESU LokSound decoders as well as others. Program track boosters such as the DCC Specialties PowerPax or SoundTraxx PTB-100 are not required with ESU LokSound decoders, the program track should be directly connected to the command station's program track outputs.

As always visit our DCC Assistance page on our website for more helpful tips and tricks.

HO Scale Western Pacific / Timken Roller Freight 40ft. PS-1 Boxcar (STOCK #45490)

In the early 50's many railroads were experimenting with roller bearing trucks to replace the standard solid bearings used for decades before. The Timken company was one of the leaders in this new technology, and was recognized on this special paint scheme for the Western Pacific. WP 19537 was fitted with Timken Roller bearing trucks and given the "Timken Roller Freight" logo. The InterMountain HO scale model of this car has accurately reproduced the special paint scheme featuring a silver body, black ends and the trademark orange Western Pacific Feather emblem spanning the length of the car.

WHOOPIE!

HO Scale BNSF Bi-Level Auto Rack (STOCK #452999)

This model represents a typical BNSF bi-level auto rack in the yellow TTX paint scheme. There is however, an issue with the color not matching the car numbers used. The six road numbers on these cars are from the series of auto racks that are painted BNSF orange. Since there are many that will not be concerned with this difference, or would be willing to renumber the cars into the proper sequence, we are making a limited number of these cars available at a special price. The InterMountain auto rack features etched metal side panels, razor sharp printing, metal wheels & couplers and operating end doors.
