Ten road names of the colorful N scale EMD® F7A and nine road names of the F7B are ready to ship! Six of the F7A and five of the F7B paint schemes are being offered for the first time by InterMountain. These locomotives feature the following: Wire grab irons, horizontal or vertical etched metal grilles according to the road name, road specific details (dynamic brakes, steam generators, winterization hatches, and more), new tooled drive, new knuckle coupler mounting system as part of the die-cast chassis, all new LED lighting (separate outputs for ditch lights available), and knuckle couplers. Confirm your Advance Reservations quickly to assure early delivery!

F7's were produced from 1949 through 1953. The total produced included 2,366 A units and 1,483 B units. The F7's were sold to many railroads in the United States, Canada, and Mexico with a few going to Saudi Arabia. They were originally designed for freight service but a few were used for short distance passenger trains. Some carriers equipped F units with steam generators and used them for long range passenger service. The so-called bulldog nose was a distinguishing feature of the F units appearance.
